Mobile planetarium and lecture set for Saturday, April 6 at library

Kerrville, Texas (March 22, 2024) – Join us at the Butt-Holdsworth Memorial Library on Saturday, April 6 for an extraordinary pre-eclipse experience. We are thrilled to host two lectures by renowned eclipse expert, Professor Mark Littman, in our meeting room at 3 and 4:30 p.m. Seating is limited so be sure to arrive early.

Professor Littman will delve into his latest publication, “Totality: The Great North American Eclipse of 2024,” with signed copies available for purchase.

Additionally, don't miss the return of the captivating mobile planetarium, transforming the library's main lobby into a journey through the solar system. Five immersive sessions will be held at 10:15 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 12:45 p.m., 3:15 p.m., and 4:30 p.m.

Both events are open to the public and free of charge. However, advanced registration is required for the mobile planetarium. Reserve your spot starting March 25 at 10 a.m. at <https://buttholdsworth.librarycalendar.com/events/month/2024/04> or contact the library reference desk at (830) 258-1274.
