"These young adults are remarkably dedicated and have worked exceptionally hard to perform at a competitive level," said Ashlea Boyle, Director of Parks and Recreation.

The Super Guard Competition consisted of three unknown scenarios and simulations that encompass First-Aid, Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation CPR, spinal injury management, water rescues, conscious and unconscious guests, pool fouling / biohazard incidents, and additional lifesaving techniques. "Our guards are trained and licensed under the Jeff Ellis & Associates lifeguard training program. We are trained to use basic life support equipment such as supplemental oxygen and an automated external defibrillator (AED). All three competition finalists are E&A trained facilities."

Competition coordinators do their best to simulate emergencies with makeup, props, fake blood, and in some competitions, a theartic professional to create life like injuries," added Ms. Boyle. "Teams are then meticulously judged on their ability to recognize and react to each emergency, problem solving, confidence, teamwork, rule enforcement, triage, and overall skill level and management of the scenario. It's actually quite difficult and we are very proud of our team."
